Detailed Project Description*

Located on the northern border of Georgetown University, Burleith is a residential community of some 535 single-family houses. Most were designed by Arthur Heaton and W.W. Taylor and built by Shannon & Luchs between 1923 and 1928 in a modified Georgian colonial-style. Marketed to “the buyer of moderate means, but of more than ordinary good taste,” the houses included features usually reserved for higher-priced housing and departed from traditional row house design through distinctive architectural elements and variations that created visual interest. The nationally acclaimed development inspired similar ones in Detroit, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. (About 40 other houses in Burleith were built between 1803–1920; another 40 or so were built by Cooley Brothers between 1925–1931.)

Recently Burleith has witnessed a growing number of “pop ups” and large incompatible additions that counter the neighborhood’s cohesive aesthetic. Burleith is particularly vulnerable because nearly half of its houses are rentals, many of which are now being sold for build-out and resale.

In response, a 6-person committee sanctioned by the Burleith Citizens Association board was formed to explore historic designation. This grant would provide seed money to hire a preservation specialist and implement outreach activities to gauge community support. Activities include “town hall” meetings (with panels of architects, contractors, and government officials), mailings, flyers, and a website. The community’s first meeting, in February, featured Kim Williams of the DC Historic Preservation Office. The others will provide further historical background, address specific concerns, and propose district boundaries.

We are planning innovative means to make the meetings enjoyable and informative and to make the content widely available. For example, our quiz of historical “fun” facts about Burleith, accompanied by enlarged photos that offer clues, is designed to stimulate discussion before the formal meeting. As a neighborhood committed to sustainability, we will also address how historic designation affects use of solar panels and “green” renovation materials. We will videotape each meeting and post key excerpts on the website to expand the reach of our efforts.

The committee has interviewed two experienced preservation professionals who are interested in working with us. Funds are currently not available to hire either of them.

Success will be gauged by achieving multiple contacts with homeowners, increased attendance at meetings, participation in a web-based Q&A forum, and the hiring of a preservation specialist. We hope that some of our outreach methods can be used by other neighborhoods investigating historic designation.

We will develop print and web materials for and after the meetings. Fact sheets, flyers, and brochures will address Burleith’s architectural history, significance of historic designation, logistics of historic approvals, and other information to help property owners decide on historic designation. Materials will be posted on the Burleith website.

#3

All property owners will be invited to the meetings although all residents are welcome. Some 50 people attended the first meeting; we seek even higher numbers at the next two.

Protecting Burleith’s architectural legacy is a vital part of building a sustainable cultural community and a key goal in the BCA’s bylaws (i.e., “safeguarding and preserving [Burleith’s] character and heritage”).

Future Plans*

Describe future plans for the project beyond the scope of this grant proposal (e.g., how consultant recommendations will be implemented, how education programs will be institutionalized, how publications will be distributed, etc.)

The community’s reaction to the proposed historic designation will inform the BCA’s next steps. Assuming a generally supportive community, the BCA will authorize the preservation consultant to continue work and prepare the nomination for submission to the DC Historic Preservation Review Board. The historic designation committee will stand ready to answer questions and provide opportunities for further discussion should they be required during the comment period following submission. We will also prepare any necessary information for the final hearing.

We intend for this process to stimulate even more interest in our neighborhood history. The BCA’s History Committee has already carried out restoration of the neighborhood’s five fire call boxes and is preparing a manuscript for Arcadia Publishing’s Images of America series. We anticipate holding neighborhood history and architecture talks and tours as residents become more aware of our rich cultural and architectural history.

Consultants and Partners

Has the consultant(s) been selected?*

No

See our guidelines for information regarding consultant selection and approval. If they have not been chosen, please note that, if selected for a grant, you will be required to submit your consultant choice for approval by our grants office before your grant agreement is issued and funds disbursed.

Consultant name/firm (if they have been chosen)

Consultant's e-mail address

Consultant's contact information

Please provide a website address or use the file upload box to attach the chosen consultant's resume.

[Unanswered]

Does the project involve any outside partners?

If yes, please describe the role that partner organizations will play in this project.

Yes. The project will involve the Burleith Community Fund, a 501(c)(3) established in 2008 by the Burleith Citizens Association to strengthen the Burleith community by promoting charitable activities, cultural enrichment, community service, and environmental improvements. The BCF is funded through contributions from individuals and organizations, gifts, and bequests. The BCF will collect and disburse funds related to our historic designation activities.

Expenses*

How were the project expenses determined? Do you have proposals with cost estimates for this work or are they your own projections?

85% of the project expenses is related to the historian needed for outreach campaigns and historic designation. We have received one proposal from EHT Traceries and are using their estimate as a guideline. Printing and postage were calculated based on an estimate of printing and mailing costs for community outreach using the vendor's website.

Dear Taxpayer:

This is in response to your Jan. 10, 2011, request for information regarding your tax-exempt status.

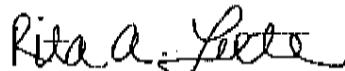

Our records indicate that you were recognized as exempt under section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code in a determination letter issued in January 1974.

Because you are not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Code, donors may not deduct contributions made to you. You should advise your contributors to that effect.

Please refer to our website www.irs.gov/eo for information regarding filing requirements. Specifically, section 6033(j) of the Code provides that failure to file an annual information return for three consecutive years results in revocation of tax-exempt status as of the filing due date of the third return for organizations required to file. We will publish a list of organizations whose tax-exempt status was revoked under section 6033(j) of the Code on our website beginning in early 2011.

If you have any questions, please call us at the telephone number shown in the heading of this letter.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Ms. Vann:

I am writing to endorse the Burleith Citizens Association's grant application to the National Trust for support in investigating and pursuing historic designation for their community.

I have been the District of Columbia Councilmember representing Ward 2 and thus Burleith since 1991. During my tenure on the Council, I have had many opportunities to interact with this relatively small but dynamic community, which is known as "A Village in the City."

I have appreciated the opportunities to speak at their annual community meetings in November of each year. There is always a large turnout and the Q and A following my remarks demonstrate that the community is actively involved in issues at both the local and the city-wide level.

The annual community picnic, held in June, is an opportunity for me to interact with the Burleith residents on a more informal level, and to enjoy the convivial atmosphere of this group of neighbors. The afternoon of music, refreshments, fire engine, police vehicle, and GERMS ambulance visits for children; and the Top Dog contest is a tribute to the organizational abilities of the citizens' association and its committees. At the 2013 picnic, when Burleith celebrated its 90th anniversary, I was pleased to present a proclamation to BCA leaders recognizing the community's accomplishments.

I am familiar with the benefits of historic designation in other neighborhoods, particularly Georgetown; thus, I appreciate the desire of the BCA to pursue this designation for their community. Given my interactions with the BCA over the years, I have no doubt that they are a capable organization and would be prudent stewards of any grant funds awarded. I sincerely hope that you will be able to approve their grant application.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nicky Vann

National Trust for Historic Preservation

Dear Ms. Vann:

On behalf of Georgetown University, I write in support of the Burleith Citizens Association's application for funding to further consider historic designation for the Burleith neighborhood of Washington, DC.

Over the past several years Georgetown University has worked closely with the BCA on issues of mutual concern ranging from the development of our "campus plan" to local land use, neighborhood clean-ups, and the neighborhood community festival. It is clear that the BCA is a strong advocate for its community, committed to neighborhood improvement and proud of the community's distinct identity within the District of Columbia. I have been impressed by the organization's ability to communicate its goals and activities to all Burleith residents and to mobilize community action.

And perhaps most relevant for your purposes of considering this funding application, is the BCA's ability to take on complicated projects and carry them through to completion. As the recently completed call box restoration project – progress of which was documented in the BCA's newsletter and website – attests, the organization knows how to get things done. In less than two years, the BCA call box team investigated local regulations, researched and wrote plaque content, conducted a fundraising campaign that raised $13,500 from 100 community members and friends, and procured and managed vendors to restore the boxes and fabricate and install the plaques. No small feat!

I have no doubt that the BCA will bring the same organizational strengths and diligence to the exploration of historic designation. I encourage you to support its funding request and its efforts to consider how best to maintain its architectural heritage.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Ms. Vann:

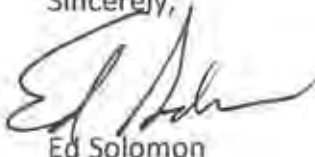

As the ANC2E commissioner representing Burleith and as a former member of the Board of the Burleith Citizens Association, I would like to voice my support for the Burleith Citizens Association's application for funding related to exploring possible historic designation for Burleith in Washington, DC.

In my capacity as vice-chairman of our Advisory Neighborhood Commission and the single member district representative for Burleith (and Hillandale), I have worked closely with the other members of the ANC, various District of Columbia officials and decision-makers, and the BCA on many matters affecting our constituents, including Georgetown University's Campus Masterplan, the modernization of Duke Ellington School for the Arts (a National Register-listed property), and airplane noise from Reagan National Airport. I have always been struck by the capacity of the BCA and its Board. In particular, they are quite adept at organizing community outreach and consultation processes, a trait it can be expected to exhibit during the exploration of the historic designation process and possible further steps.

Like many neighborhoods in Washington, DC, Burleith is a dynamic neighborhood that is a highly desirable place to live or invest. As demand for housing continues to increase, I support the BCA's initiative to consider ways to safeguard the neighborhood's aesthetic and quality of life. Although it would be premature for me or any other ANC2E commissioner to take a stand on historic designation for Burleith at this point, we recognize the value that has accrued to Georgetown as a historic district and believe Burleith should be supported in its efforts to see if its architectural heritage also merits protecting.

We encourage you to fund their grant request so that the investigative process can move forward.

Sincerely,
